WOMAN---HER RESPONSIBILITY.

COL. BRUTON'S EXCELLENT ADDRESS

The Fascinating But Dangerous Chant of Change. Change---No Longer Following Washington's Dictum That the Happiness of Society is Found in a Virtuous Policy---Decolite in the Hands of Society and in Those of a Policeman---Invoking Government Against the Citizen. The Individual is the Unit of Society and He it is Who Must be Reached, and Woman Must Reach Him---The Power of the Country Rests Upon Its Citizenship---The Strength of Citizenship is in the Man, the Force of Man as a Citizen is Dependent Upon His Home, and His Love of Home is Determined by the Woman Who Rules It.

The exercises of the Greensboro Female College alumnae reunion were held in the chapel last night, being attended by a large audience. After prayer had been offered Miss Ethel Blalock, of Norwood, a graduate of the music department, rendered with rare skill, a piano solo. Miss Annie Williams Pierce, of Weldon, sang "Beauty's Eyes" in a charming manner, eliciting much applause.

The principal event of the evening was the alumnae address by Col. John F. Bruton, of Wilson. He was introduced in a few appropriate words by President Peacock.

Col. Bruton is a polished orator, and his address was replete with fine thought, choice language and beautiful periods. No more fitting subject could have been chosen--"Present Conditions and Woman's Responsibilities." The speech for convenience may be divided into two sections: A description of present conditions, and the work that woman is called upon to do to improve those conditions. Of the first, which embraced perhaps one fourth of the speech, we must, for want of room, omit, giving only a synopsis, but the remainder we give in full, and the speech is so well conceived and the thought so well expressed, that if possible, it loses little by being read rather than heard.

"This is a critical period in a wonderful age; history is making more rapidly than the swiftest stenographer can record it. The lines of governmental territories change in a night, and the thoughtless world wags its head, applauds for the moment the victorious strategists, and the next cries for something more startling still to satisfy its abnormal appetite." This restless desire for change, and the thoughtlessness and irresponsibility of the masses of the people, the change which our government is undergoing in its foreign policies and relations, the minimizing of the man, and the many dangers that surround us, call for a regeneration of our citizenship. How shall this be accomplished? By our women.

Col. Bruton further said: Let us in all honesty and truth admit to those depending upon us for information and guidance that there are no settled plans for the solution of present state problems--time and experiment alone must determine. The expense will prove trying to many of the strong, and nothing save love of country can overcome the spirit of unrest breeding in the minds of a great, ever increasing throng, aroused from sleeping couches by the fascinating but dangerous chant of "Change, Change, Change. Nothing but change."

It is a condition that confronts us; it is eminently wise for us to acknowledge it, and imperative that we strive to all honesty to meet it.

The disfranchisement of the negro will eliminate one element of danger, a source of power with no corresponding responsibility at present regulating its exercise. An absolute prohibition against immigration, and a subsidy with which to speed the departure of restless immigrants, will likewise remove a frowning menace to the conservative exercise of government under changing conditions. It would be wise indifference to stop here, for the above suggestions are but accidentals in the great work which lies before the American people. It has been urged that a purification of our politics would prove a panacea as it is generally admitted that our statesmen no longer adhere to the rule laid down by Washington to the effect that "It ought to be the end of all government to promote the aggregate happiness of society, and that is best done by the practice of a virtuous policy." Pleading by way of confession and avoidance our political heroes admit that Mr. Washington's famous declaration might perhaps be true did the demands upon them come from a virtuous society. They insist that when society is purified, purity of government will follow. When it is suggested that this work of purification should begin in politics or government they urge that it would be artificial, a mere strengthening of the superstructure, and would cordially invite the downfall of a top-heavy structure,--in short, a defeat of the party espousing the cause of reform. Certainly there is some basis of the truth for this proposition, or men in public life would not dare to take issue with the "Father of his Country." In truth we are compelled to admit that even now government in some instances overshadows in cleanliness and propriety society as portrayed in the conduct of some of its recognized leaders. For instance the strong arm of the law has been invoked in many of our cities to compel women to remove their hats at public gatherings in order to give those sitting in their rear an opportunity to see the speaker. It has become necessary to legislate against spitting on the floors of public buildings and in vehicles of public carriers. I am told that in the exclusive circles of our great capital city a hostess would consider it an insult should any of her lady guests ap-patriotic convictions stimulate confidence when all around is darkness, whose wisdom is positive and not superficial, whose pleasures are above self indulgence, and let her in song, story and caress, and by the mysterious force of a well developed mind and a clean heart, inspire the prattling babe in the crib, the growing boy and the stalwart man about her with a gospel superior to and more elevating to character than that of Stephen Decatur who said

"Our country, may she always be right, but our country right or wrong."

The doctrine of truth and right which bespeaks self-denial in the growth of character can be taught nowhere more impressively and successfully than in the home. The world without the lights and shadows of the hearthstone is full of policy and expediency, and the temptations to sacrifice truth often overcome the best of men in their anxiety to accomplish desirable results. We are in grave need of a high standard of political morals to command the confidence and respect of the masses; this standard must be nurtured in the home. A great man once said: "Though I walk barefooted and blindfolded over burning plowshares, I have nothing to fear with truth to guide me." This is not the teachings of the busy selfish world. Such faith must be bedded and grown as a part of ones life in the sacred influence and teachings of the home, presided over pear at an evening social function other than decolite, and yet should this guest appear on the streets in the day time in this extreme fashion she would be arrested by a policeman. I might multiply these examples in evidence of the fact that there is a growing tendency to invoke government against the citizens, (who often rank with our best and most highly honored people) for the purpose of compelling good manners, cleanliness and decency. Appeals to government to regulate by legislation what citizens shall eat, drink and wear, and otherwise control their customs and privileges and humiliating admissions by society of its decadence, and denies us the hope that we may look to society as it now is for assistance in the solution of threatening complications.

It has been said that if one would purify the stream he must direct his labors to the fountain head. The unit of the body politic being the individual, it is he, whether babe or adult, that must be reached, and that too in his own home whenever possible. It is a positive treatment of the body politic, not en masse, but as individuals, which will raise the standard of our citizenship, and develop a greater love for truth and right living. For our sure salvation I recommend for every home a brave teacher before whose strength, brawn and muscle will give away, a teacher whose heart is aflame with interest beyond the price of bread, whose by a consecrated woman who knows the right in politics as affecting character and who loves the truth for truth's sake, whether endorsed by the President of the United States or not, and who for the sake of the permanent blessings to accrue to those dependent upon her inspiration and guidance will strive to influence the growth of their minds, not as a political party leader would do, but from the ideal standard of truth and righteousness. Our wisest and best men may hesitate perhaps to say so, but press them for an answer and they will tell you that nothing so certainly as a wise, consecrated, patriotic womanhood in our homes can assure success to our beloved country with its grave and trying responsibilities, now weighing it down. It has been suggested that the educators of our girls do not address themselves as vigorously as they should to the development of this side of woman's character, fearing possibly that their efforts in this direction might be misconstrued as female suffrage. I beg to remark that their efforts will not be misunderstood, provided the true sphere of woman's influence is emphasized at the same time.

There is more than sentiment in a consecrated, patriotic woman. There may have been a time when beauty of form and face, and a sweet disposition, constituted the essentials of an accept-

BRIGHT AND HAPPY GRADUATES.

AWARDED DIPLOMAS THIS MORNING

Exercises at Greensboro Female College Today---Well Written Theses Read by Members of the Senior Class---Graduates Have Done Splendid Work---Concert Tonight.

The chapel of Greensboro Female College was well filled this morning with the friends and patrons of the institution to witness the graduating exercises of one of the brightest classes ever sent out from the classic walls of the oldest chartered female college in the South.

Divine blessings were invoked by Rev. Dr. F. H. Wood, presiding elder of the Greensboro District, after which President Peacock announced the members of the graduating class, with the subjects of their theses, as follows:

Miss Minnie Aurora Best, Goldsboro, "A Florentine Cemetery;" Miss Mame Clement, Mocksville, "Julius Caesar, a Character Sketch;" Miss Martha Sarah Dozier, Conetoe, "James Iredell, a Character Sketch;" Miss Lura Gibson, Gibson, "Types of Good and Evil;" Miss Marie Elizabeth Hamer, Fulmore, "A Group of Rare Lambs;" Miss Eugenia Adella Rowe, Greensboro, "The Republic of the Occident;" Miss Gertrude Wagg, Greensboro, "Poe and Rosetti."

The President stated that one of the requirements for graduation was the preparation by each member of the graduating class of a thesis containing not less than 3,000 words. These theses are submitted to a committee from the faculty by the first Saturday in May and the best three selected to be read at commencement.

The first essay on the program was "James Iredell, a Character Sketch," by Miss Martha Sarah Dozier. The sketch was admirably written and dealt with the more important events in the life of one of the greatest North Carolinians of the early days. As a statesman and jurist he stood pre-eminent among his contemporaries.

Miss Minnie Aurora Best read an essay on "A Florentine Cemetery." It was written in excellent English and showed much familiarity with the subject at hand.

The last of the three essays was read by Miss Eugenia Adella Rowe. She chose as her subject "The Republic of the Occident," and its reading developed the fact that the author enjoyed a wide acquaintance with current history. She laid down the proposition that the 264 men who lost their lives by the destruction of the battleship Maine did more for their country in death than they would have done in life. She referred to the fact that, with the flag floating over the Philippines, the star of empire which ever finds its way westward, had completed the circle of the globe. Speaking of the material basis of our national prosperity, the fair young graduate declared that the difference between nations is not so much in their resources as in their men, and added that the people of America owe less to what is under their feet than what is in their hearts.

A piano solo, "Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 2" was rendered by Misses Lizzie and Nora Balsey, Elma Courtney and Bessie Miller.

"Memory," a vocal trio, was sung by Misses M. O. Black and Mozelle Andrews and Mr. J. W. Parker.

In a short, practical talk President Peacock presented certificates to the following graduates of the business department:

In Stenography--Misses Walker Fry, Sallie Turner, May Stevenson, Bessie Johnson and Claudia Jeffreys.

In Typewriting--Misses Walker Fry, Sallie Turner, May Stevenson, Ruby McIntosh, Lillian Owen and Nellie Newton.

In Book-keeping--Misses Dora Smith, Lulu Marsh and Claudia Jeffreys.

Having completed the course in elocution, Miss Nellie Merrimon was presented with the first certificate ever granted in this department during the entire history of the institution.

Miss Ethel Blalock, of Norwood, was presented with a certificate of graduation in the department of music.

The graduates in the regular college course were then presented with diplomas and Bibles, after which the doxology was sung and Rev. T. E. Wagg pronounced the benediction.

The annual concert will be given this evening. Admission will be by tickets only, and those attending are requested to be in the chapel by 8:30 o'clock, as the exercises will begin promptly at that hour.

A BING-BANG-BOOM IN ST. LOUIS.

Strikers Attempt to Blow up Street Railway with Dynamite--People Lifted out of their Beds by the Shock.

By Wire to the Telegram.

St. Louis, May 30--Strikers or their sympathizers attempted to destroy the road bed of the street railway at Fifteenth and Chambers streets early this morning, with dynamite.

Nobody was killed but many were thrown from their beds and injured. One o'clock this morning the street was deserted. In the neighborhood of the explosion the lights in all the houses were out. Suddenly there was a bing-bang-boom felt in the radius of a mile, and hundreds of panes of glass were broken, and men, women and children hurled from their beds. At first it was thought that an earthquake had struck town. Afterwards all the reserves were called out.

About the same time of the dynamite explosion a bomb exploded on the tracks in front of the power house on Spring avenue and North Market street, but the police were unable to discover the perpetrator. The probable damage to the track prevents operation of the line today. Quarry men at the north end report fifty pounds of dynamite stolen recently and it is believed that a stick of this was employed this morning. Officer Lofton said that when the shooting began it seemed to him that fifty men had pistols pointed at the car and that each was blazing away.

ROBERTS IN JOHANNESBURG TODAY

He Expects to Reach Pretoria On Friday. In a Rush to Save the Mines as Positive Orders to Destroy Them Has Been Given.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, May 30--Lord Roberts, bivouacked with his army in the suburbs of Johannesburg enters the town today at noon. It is expected that he will reach Pretoria, the Transvaal capital, which is only forty miles distant on Friday.

Roberts is rushing to save the mines as positive orders have been given. He says they are yet intact.

A dispatch from Roodek Kop, just north of Johannesburg, says that Tuesday night French's cavalry was reported at Zurfontein, just northeast of Johannesburg, in contact with a moving body of Boers, and a battle was expected at any moment.

AMERICAN MARINES IN CHINA.

Four Hundred Have Been Landed and Are Hastening to Protect the American Embassy--Other Marines at the Scene.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Shanghai, May 30--The British warship Orlando and Algerie are landing a hundred men at Taku, where French, Russian and Japanese guards have already disembarked.

The Boxers are apparently without arms, except those they have obtained from soldiers, many of whom are openly joining the rebels. Four hundred American marines landed by the cruiser Newark, have reached Tien Tsin. They were reported to be hastening with all speed to protect the American embassy.

The Imperial troops sent to disperse Boxers found themselves hopelessly outnumbered. Several hundred were killed, and two guns and many rifles captured.

A TOWN WIPED OUT OF EXISTENCE.

A Cloud Burst Near Pana, Ill., Takes a Village Away.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Pana, Ill., May 4--Shohernier, a small station south of here, was wiped out of existence by a cloud burst yesterday and a hundred feet of the track washed away. A congregational church in process of erection and many houses were destroyed.

The President and several members of the cabinet left Washington at half past nine this morning for the Antietam battlefield, to witness the dedication of the Maryland monument.

THE WIND AT THE DOOR.

Often to my door
Comes a twilight visitor.
When the mountain summer day
From our valley takes his way,
And the journeying shadows stride
Over the green mountain side,
Down the clove among the trees
Moves the ghostly wandering breeze.
With the first stars on the crest
And the pale light in the west
He comes up the dark ravine
Where no traveler is seen.
Yet his coming makes a stir
In the house of Ash and Fir.
"Master, is't in our abode
You will tarry on the road?"
"Nay, I like your roof tree well,
But with you I may not dwell."
Birches whisper at their sill
As he passes up the hill,
"Stranger, underneath our boughs
There is ample room to house."
"Friends, I have another quest
Than your cool abiding rest."
And the fluttering Aspen knows
Whose step by her doorway goes—
"Honor, lord, thy silver tree
And the chamber laid for thee."
"Nay, I must be faring on,
For tonight I seek my own.
Breath of the red dust is he
And a wayfarer like me;
Here a moment and then lost
On a trail confused and crossed.
And I gently would surprise
Recognition in his eyes;
Touch his hand and talk with him
When the forest light is dim,
Taking counsel with the lord
Of the utterable word."
Hark, did you hear some one try
The west window furtively
And then move among the leaves
In the shadow of the eaves?
The red curtain at the door
Rustled; there's my visitor
Who comes searching for his kin.
"Enter, brother, I'm within."
—Bliss Carman in Scribner's.

SHORT LIVED COMPLIMENT.

Archibald Forbes' Experience With a Colored Cabman.

There is a delightfully human story which Archibald Forbes, the famous war correspondent, told, rather at his own expense, of his gratification at the apparent desire of the "man and brother" for higher intellectual culture. On arriving at the station at West Chester, Pa., where he was to lecture, a colored cabman, it is said, offered his services to convey him to his hotel. When he got there, Mr. Forbes asked the extent of remuneration expected for the journey. The darky replied:

"Well, sah, if you'd jes' give me a ticket to de lectur', sah, I should be right glad."

This unusual request from a cabman struck him not only as singular and laudable, but as quite complimentary to him, so he said:

"Certainly. And haven't you got a missis?"

"Oh, yes, sah; I've got a missis!"

"Well, you shall have one for her."

And he requested his agent to hand to the knowledge seeker the requisite passes for the entertainment. On reaching the lecture room he cast a glance over the audience to see his colored friend, but he had not arrived, nor did he put in an appearance. Next morning, on getting into the same man's vehicle to go to the station, Mr. Forbes said:

"I didn't see you at the lecture last night."

"No, sah; I we' not dar."

"But, you know, I gave you tickets for yourself and wife."

"Yes, sah; I know that, sah, but you see, sah, I jes' sold dem tickets for $1, sah, 'cause I'd rather hab de cash, sah."—Philadelphia Call.

His Roundabout Way.

A man was going home to his wife and family. It was growing dark. His road from the station was a lonely one, and he was getting along as fast as he could when he suddenly suspected that a man behind him was following him purposely. The faster he went the faster the man went until they came to a graveyard.

"Now," he said to himself, "I'll find if he's after me." And he entered the churchyard.

The man followed him. Vague visions of revolvers and garrotes grew upon him. He made a detour of a splendid mausoleum. Still the man was after him, round and round.

At last he turned and faced the fellow and asked: "What the dickens do you want? What are you following me for?"

"Well, sir, do you always go home like this? I am going up to Mr. Brown's house with a parcel, and the porter at the station told me that if I'd follow you I should find the place, as you live next door. Are you going home at all tonight?"—Columbian.

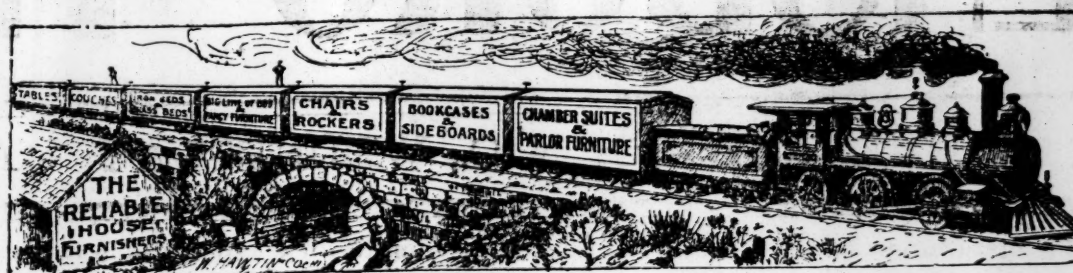

In the Swim.

A flat dweller returned home the other Thursday afternoon to find under her door a card, "Miss Mary X. Chisholm."

"Who can she be and what did she want?" speculated the flat dweller to herself. "I don't know any Miss Mary X. Chisholm." The mystery remained unsolved until the return of the flat dweller's negro maid from her "afternoon out." "She am a lady fren of mine," explained the maid, grinning at the card, which in engraving and all other respects was irreproachable. "She lef' her cyard under de do' when she finds I was not ter home, same as yo' lady fren's."—New York Sun.

A German physician explains why red haired persons seldom seem to get so bald as others. Red hairs are so thick that 30,000 cover a head as well as 100,000 blond or 105,000 black hairs.

WINE OF CARDUI

THE LINK THAT BINDS.

JACKSON, TENN., Nov. 23.

I was subject to miscarriage for three years, and suffered constantly with backache. I wrote to you for advice, and after using three bottles of Wine of Cardui, according to your directions, I am strong and well, and the mother of a fine girl baby.

Mrs. E. N. JOWERS.

WINE OF CARDUI

There is no use talking—a baby in the house is the link that binds husband and wife together. Nothing is sadder than fruitless wedlock. The prattling and cooing of the little ones offset a thousand times the occasional worries and trials of life. When a wife is barren, there is a derangement somewhere in the genital organs, caused by one or more of those common disorders known as "female troubles". Wine of Cardui is the remedy. It puts the organs of generation in a strong and healthy condition, fitting the wife for the sacred duty of reproducing her kind. During the period of gestation the entire system of the expectant mother is built up to withstand the ordeal of labor, and when the little one makes its advent it is lusty and strong, well-fitted to grow to maturity in perfect health. The mother, too, passes through the trial with little pain and no dread. Wine of Cardui is truly a wonderful medicine for women.

reason of environments incident to social and domestic life, has never been awakened or educated in the true sense. Its owner cannot dominate the home by the invocation of the beautiful in life and thought, nor command the unquestioning confidence which worships at the footstool of a discriminating intellect. It is the true education which strengthens one's faith in the principles of truth. Every nation and tribe on the earth, no matter how barbarous or how enlightened, acknowledge and yields obedience to a Supreme Being—a God, but it is the uneducated mind that boasts of indifference to the reasons and proof of the existence of God, and the natural result is a complete paralysis of those high conceptions by which life is broadened and the horizon limiting man's dominion is discovered. The rich man strives for greater riches because he feels poor in comparison with his ideals. The truly educated mind seeks wisdom because it realizes its ignorance when contemplating the perfect knowledge of God. A mind devoid of high ideals is uneducated and its owner is an idler and an enemy to progress and growth of character. The growing evil which prompts the measurement of life by dollars and the sordid pleasures purchasable with gold, are sapping manhood and womanhood of the strength assured us by which we may comprehend and enjoy in some measure the wonderful truth that man is fashioned in God's own image. While His thoughts are not our thoughts yet I believe that having made us after his own likeness and crowned us with knowledge of the fact, He thus bade us develop to the highest degree possible the qualities possessed by us akin to or favoring Him, and mind being one of these qualities, to be referred to not improperly as a spark of His own conscience, will, if nourished and fed, grow up within us a power capable of mastering much that is now hidden by the veil erroneously termed infinity. Beyond this veil there is a positive line which marks our limitations, and until it is reached the human mind shall be denied its holiday. The fact that it is a woman's holiest and most joyous duty to discover and nurture this spark struck from the mind of God leads me to believe that it is a sin against the Divine plan to limit her education. The advocates of a higher education for women are disciples and servants of an overruling Providence, and in time to come enemies to this holy cause will through their own offspring pay the price of the crime of opposition thus committed; for the fruit they eat will "put their children's teeth on edge."

In common parlance the term education has to do exclusively with books and the acquirement of knowledge, and fearing that some hasty listener may not note the expanding limitations of this qualification, and thereby be confronted in after life with crippling impediments in the discharge of the duties herein appointed, it is proper to emphasize the thought that an education limited to the acquirement of knowledge breeds selfishness in the family circle. The home teacher whose stock in store is composed of books only cannot hope to meet with success in the upbuilding of character. Candor compels the statement that there is no curriculum in print for the home school. There is no set of rules available however fit for variation. A true woman's intuition revolts against the tedious circumscriptions contained in the best books on social and political economy. In order that I may not be misunderstood permit me to say that a bookish woman is a distressing "blue-stocking," and is at best only a five minutes' attraction; she can neither command nor lead for the reason that she is painfully studied and unnatural. It is this weakness against which the ambitious young woman should be warned. The woman possessed of unfeigned naturalness, a healthy individuality and honesty of purpose, draws to herself the best of what she sees, reads and experiences, and it her own; and while she may wear blue stockings, yet the folds of her intellectual garments rest so gracefully and naturally that we see naught of eccentricity or idiosyncrasy in her costume. It is her growing ambition

"So well to know Her own that what she wills to do or say Seems wisest, virtuest, discreetest, best." I would not decry knowledge, for when properly employed it gives force to character and life to thought. Knowledge does not however inspire independence of thought and action. It is wisdom that is an imperative qualification to the discharge of solemn duties for which there are printed receipts; for

"Knowledge and wisdom, far from being one, Have oft-times no connexion. Knowledge dwells In heads replete with thoughts of other men; Wisdom in minds attentive to their own."

Solomon who rejoiced in wealth, pleasure, fame and wisdom, and drank deep of the cups thus identified, did not delay his decision in favor of wisdom until old age had dulled his senses, but while in the midst of sturdy young manhood recorded his verdict in words positive and urgent. Said he, "Wisdom is the principle thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy gettings get understanding."

While education in its fullest sense is a prime necessity in a woman perfected, yet there are other qualifications which have in many instances overshadowed the accomplishments of the greatest scholars. Unfeigned love and unconscious self-sacrifice are twin endowments, the powers of which are unlimited, and a life devoid of which is "as sounding brass or tinkling cymbal."

Love has been referred to as a "woman's whole existence," and hence the belief on the part of some stupid men that this quality in woman is self-supporting and requires no care or cultivation. Such does seem to be the case in some instances. It is this spirit of self-abnegation which has rendered womankind a mystery to men, who watch her growing strength as she follows the loved object for love's sake through evil as well as through good report, achieving victories in rescuing the wayward from destruction when all besides her curse the ingrate and bestow only pity on the heroine. A woman without love cannot mould character nor inspire a higher life. She is as dangerous as fruit preserved in poison; she is as poor as "he who knoweth not the color of gold," and in her poverty she becomes an enemy to all that is good. Love is the richest possession of the soul. It is the basis of all that is true, and beautiful and good. It sings all the songs and wears all the smiles of life. The search light of intellect may throw its long luminous fingers across the unknown waste of thought; the sensibilities may sweet, the chords of feeling in outbursts of richest harmony; and the will may twist and break the iron bars of impossibilities, but the human heart that throbs with unfeigned love, for a life other than its own, is the one deathless victor that plants its white banner above all thrones and principalities. Love alone can aspire to a life like unto that beautiful character of "My Kate," immortalized in a little poem of Mrs. Browning. Her thoughts of hers make you think of her, she never implied your wrong by her right, and all who knew her grew nobler and purer. The rude and the ribald, the weak and the gentle, the fierce and the brave, she took them as she found them and did them all good.

A love which begets self-forgetfulness reaches out to a perfect standard whereby all things are possible. A woman imbued with this love wields a charming influence and proves herself worthy of the task herein imposed, and establishes her fitness for the ranks of our mothers who though dead and gone yet speak unto us. She it is who turn crying into laughter, bitter into sweet, a crust of dry bread into a sweet loaf, sorrow into happiness, wailing into song, a pillow of thorns into a one of down. More than this, her presence in the home is as essential to the home and as certain as the air we breathe; her smiles are as contagious as "joy in the morning," her sympathy as generous and free as the goddess of benevolence; her own comforts, her pleasures, her tears, her songs, her hands, her feet, her eyes, her head, her life, consecrated upon the home altar, and no longer her own, become the common property of those she would influence for good of country and God.

What with these endowments exercised without cant, and these sacrifices freely offered up in behalf of those she would save from failure and loss, the true woman of the home will rule as a queen here and in the great beyond, the seats closest to God's throne are none too good for her.

In conclusion it is proper to state that a subject congratulatory and provocative of joy and lightness would have proven more pleasurable on this occasion, but the lengthening shadows across an unexplored way along which ambition is beckoning our beloved country caused your speaker to forget the lights which afford most pleasure to the dreamer,—this is my apology. My utterances have been prompted by a deep seated conviction, and my soul's desire is to recruit the ranks of the patriotic women who have incessantly struggled in the upbuilding of our homes and country. Their testimony is: "I slept and dreamed that life was beauty; I woke and found that life was duty."

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science. In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers. My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh." "I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged." The Doctor answered, "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends. "I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers." Betsy A. Maret, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes: Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

TAMMANY AND THE ICE TRUST.

We have before referred to the operations of the ice Trust in New York and the war that the newspapers are making upon it. It is very interesting, doubtless doubly so to the people of New York. Among the crimes—and it is one—charged against the Trust is that while the cost of its ice is only $1.50 per ton, it demands from its consumers $12 per ton, and refuses to sell five cent cakes in the tenement districts. The strength of the Trust is said to lie in the fact that it has certain dock facilities that are unobtainable by other companies or individuals. Being unable to get these dock facilities, the independent companies are compelled to land their ice in Jersey City and carry it to New York on the ferries. This of course is too great a disadvantage to be overcome. How were such important privileges obtained? The papers do not hesitate to charge that they were granted by the city government under the direction of Tammany, and that Tammany leaders are interested in the Trust. The whole thing amounts to a charge of stupendous corruption, in which the corrupting influence was blocks of the Trust's stock. Mayor Van Wyck is credited with owning $400,000; Augustus Van Wyck a similar amount; Jno. F. Carroll, the acting leader of Tammany $500,000; the chairman and another member of the dock commission, constituting a majority of the commission, $50,000 each. The Literary Digest naively remarks that some people suspect that the holdings of stock by the members of the dock commission may have something to do with the complaints of the independent dealers that they can't get dock accommodations. The Journal, though a very yellow paper, asks a very direct question of the Mayor:

"Mayor Van Wyck, where did you get $400,000 to buy stock in the ice Trust? Did you save that sum from a $15,000 salary as judge? Did you save it from a $10,000 salary as mayor? You never honestly acquired such a sum, did you? Was that stock given you by the trust? If so, what did you do to earn it? Did you agree to help the trust to swindle the city which disgraced itself by making you mayor? Did you agree to help inflict sickness and suffering on poor women and children in your city? You have confessed a preposterous, impertinent ambition for a seat on the supreme court bench after your term as mayor. What do you think of your future political prospects now that you are caught with $400,000 worth of ice Trust stock in your pockets?"

This question does not seem to be so much one of a trust as one of the corruption of the city government. If the trust is able to do this high handed business by reason of the political organization of Tammany, then the trouble is in our politics, and not in the inherent evil of trusts. This distinction must be made before the question of trusts is touched. Under similar circumstances an individual could do what the ice Trust is doing.

We are fond of Congressman John Bellamy who in 1898 won such a magnificent victory in the "Shoestring district." Mr. Bellamy made the alumni address at Davidson College yesterday, and spoke on that present and abiding subject, expansion. Mr. Bellamy is against expansion, for which we are sorry; he is too progressive a man himself not to wish his country the same. He is quoted as having said, yesterday:

The Patent Office, which is the index of a nation's progress, shows that w are the most progressive nation on earth, and we owe all this to the fact that we have lived closely up to the old Constitution.

The orthodox belief in the South is that the Constitution has not been lived up to, and on that point we are orthodox. We believe that the nation now cannot so violently outrage that instrument in dealing with foreign possessions as a section of our own country has outraged it in dealing with their brothers. If this be the case Congressman Bellamy must be mistaken in his proposition that close adherence to the Constitution has made us the greatest inventive nation of the world. We are sorry to see our good friend so against expansion and the facts.

"Our Church at Work," a church paper edited by Dr. R. W. Weaver, pastor of the Middleton, O., Baptist church, has an article on "Which Shall be Elevated, Hats or Pulpit," in which article we find:

The board of trustees is seriously considering the problem whether the pulpit should be raised, or shall the ladies be requested to take their hats off? These gentlemen, being well-trained married men, are of the opinion that raising the pulpit will prove the easiest means out of the existing dilemma. But the Pastor, being an unmarried man, is stoutly opposed to this season's headgear.

□ We are here to inform the Pastor that the preponderance of testimony is to the effect that when he becomes a married man he will have more cause to stoutly oppose the season's headgear.

He Had Too Many Names.

About two years before Mr. Sawyer retired from the senate his mail one morning contained a touching letter from a man in Maryland whose home had just been brightened by the arrival of a bouncing boy. The fond parent went on to tell that the boy would be named Philetus Sawyer Jones and expressed the hope that the child would grow up an honor to the name and the possessor of the fine traits of character that distinguished the generous hearted man whose name would be borne by himself. Senator Sawyer went to the senate chamber with a warm glow in his heart and the determination to send that fond parent a nice big check. He felt so good that he showed the letter to Senator Allison. The Iowa man chuckled as he read it and produced a letter almost identical, except that the young prodigy was to be named William Allison Jones.

It was too good to keep, and they told the story to Senator Edmunds of Vermont. That stately old gentleman melted sufficiently to smilingly produce a letter of similar purport. Then there ensued a comparison of senatorial notes, showing that the youthful Marylander had been fairly loaded with distinguished names from Justin Morrill Jones to Don Cameron Jones. That Maryland infant received no birthday present.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Confusing.

When the matron called upon the bride of three months, she discovered her in tears.

"Why, my dear, what is the matter?" she cried.

"I want to die! I want to die!" sobbed the bride.

"There, dear, there! What is the matter?"

"It's—it's Harry!" sobbed the girl wildly.

"Has he been abusing you?"

"No-o-o, but—oh, dear, what shall I do?"

"What on earth is the matter, dear?"

"He—he—oh, I can't tell you!"

"You must. Has he been staying out late nights?"

"No-o-o!"

"Has he been drinking?"

"No-o-o!"

"Then what is the matter?"

"He—he doesn't love me any more!"

The matron drew the sobbing girl to her side.

"Now tell me all, dear," she whispered.

"When—when he came home last night, he didn't k-k-kiss me!" she sobbed.

"My dear," said the matron, "you'll get over that. When my husband came home last night, he did kiss me, and I have been wondering ever since what he has been up to."—Detroit Free Press.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

Miss Listera Clendenin and Miss Susie Campbell left today to visit friends and relatives in Lynchburg.

Mr. W. W. Sharpe and wife, of Jersey City, who have been visiting at Mr. B. Frank Mebane's, left on the noon train for home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence S. Holt, of Burlington, passed through today on their way to New York, from which place they will sail for Europe Saturday.

Miss Clara Green, a student at Greensboro Female College, left this morning for her home in Newbern, accompanied by her father, Mr. T. A. Green, who has been attending commencement.

Dr. P. L. Groome has been accepted by the Board of University Studies of Johns Hopkins University as a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He will return to the University for examination in October.

Rev. Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, of Middleton, Ohio, arrived yesterday evening on a short visit to the family of his mother. He will remain in the State two or three weeks. Dr. Weaver is pastor of a large and flourishing Baptist church in Middleton.

Miss Mary Groome, daughter of Rev. Dr. P. L. Groome, who has been at the Woman's College of Baltimore the past two years, was honored by being asked to give the only recitation before the annual spring meeting of the Missionary Society of the First Methodist church of Baltimore. She was subsequently asked to recite for the Argosy, which was being entertained by Mrs. Bishop Wilson.

Little Folks Entertain.

Little Misses Sadie and Eloise Dick gave a delightful lawn party yesterday evening at their home from six to nine, complimentary to their little friend, Miss Flournoy Hopkins. On the lawn, ices, cakes and lemonade disappeared with marvelous rapidity under the assiduous attentions of the young misses and masters, one young gentleman remarking with commendable satisfaction, "I don't want no more ice cream, I is full now, besides I done drunk five glasses of lemonade."

In the dining room a "Jack Horner" pie awaited the expectant group. Through the crust of the pie there appeared fourteen ribbons. Fourteen little hands took hold of these ribbons and all pulled at once when through the crust of the pie came fourteen little souvenir ducks, and these little ducks were filled with candy, to the delight of the merry party.

Those present were, Misses Flournoy Hopkins, Alice Houston, Mary Yates, Mabel and Viola King, and Cora Mebane, Masters, Williamson and Charles Menefee, Charles and Brantly Yates, Hall Houston and Yates Hagan.

BUSINESS OF THE BOARD.

Aldermen Met Last Night and Transacted Business.

An adjourned meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held last night, all the members of the board being present.

The street committee filed a report recommending the purchase of a street sweeper to be used every day on South Elm. Action on the report was postponed until the next meeting of the board.

The special committee on the water-works matter reported that it hoped to be able to make a definite report at the next meeting.

The committee on firemen made a report regarding the erection of a building on the old market house lot for the use of the fire department. On motion of Alderman Joyner, a committee consisting of the chairman of the street committee, chairman of the fire committee and Aldermen Sergeant and Elam, to which the Mayor was added, was appointed to investigate the advisability of utilizing the old market house building for firemen's headquarters. The committee was empowered to employ an architect to assist in the work.

The police officers filed their monthly reports.

A petition was presented to the board asking that the market house and city hall be separated. The petition was referred to the building committee.

Alderman Hunter moved that the salary of the city attorney be fixed at $400 a year. Alderman Merrimon moved as an amendment to make the salary $300. Alderman Sergeant moved, as a substitute for the whole, that action be postponed until the next meeting. The substitute and amendment were both lost, after which the original motion prevailed and the salary was fixed at $400. The vote on the original motion was:

Ayes—Boyd, Denny, Hunter, Joyner, Love, Phillips and Scott.

Nays—Elam, Ellington, Merrimon, Sergeant and Sherwood.

Mr. A. M. Scales was placed in nomination for city attorney, and the clerk was instructed to cast the entire vote of the board for him.

Aldermen Denny moved that pressed brick be used on the east and south sides of the city hall. The motion was carried.

The board adjourned to meet Friday night.

Asleep in Death.

Mr. A. L. Gilmer, who has been critically ill for some time, died at his home near McLeannville yesterday at noon. It had been known for some time that the end was only a matter of time. He had been in feeble health for the past few years, and since last fall his condition has been critical.

Mr. Gilmer was 69 years old and unmarried. He was a successful business man, a good citizen and a most excellent gentleman.

The funeral was held at his late home this morning at 9 o'clock, the remains being brought to Greensboro and interred in Green Hill cemetery.

HE GOT THE INTERVIEW.

A Story of Amos Cummings and Secretary of State Seward.

It was while Amos Cummings was the Washington correspondent of the New York Sun that he had a memorable interview with Lincoln's secretary of state, Seward. Cummings received orders one day to get certain information from Secretary Seward without fail, and accordingly he went to the secretary's office to see him. Mr. Seward did not receive the newspaper man very cordially.

"I won't talk to a representative of The Sun on that subject," said the secretary. "I am very busy. You are taking up my time, young man, and I can't be bothered with you."

In an instant Cummings was boiling with anger and hurt pride. He drew himself up, looked the secretary straight in the eyes and said:

"You forget, sir, that there are three parties to this interview."

"Three?" queried Seward in surprise.

"How do you make that out?"

"First, sir, there is you, secretary of state and one of the foremost figures in the world of men of the day; second, there is the correspondent of the New York Sun, who has come to you on a perfectly proper errand in the service of his newspaper, and, third, sir, there is an American citizen who considers himself the equal of any man on earth and who will not be insulted by you or any man alive!"

The great Seward looked at Cummings and smiled.

"Sit down," he said, "and tell me exactly what you want, young man."

The Sun not only got the news it wanted, but also one of the best interviews with Seward ever published.—Saturday Evening Post.

WOMAN---HER RESPONSIBILITY.

able woman, but that day, if it ever existed, has passed and will soon be forgotten. That God lighted her eye with a spark of love, painted her cheeks with a brush dipped in the sunbeams of heaven, and enveloped her whole being with a sheen of beauty rivaling our conception of angels, I cheerfully admit. That she was not in the original plan, was an after thought or a side issue as claimed by Dennis Mudd, it is my duty to deny. That she is endowed with elements, the force of which for good or evil outreaches the influence of the strongest man, I am positively sure. That these elements of influence for good are fashioned for public exercise I do not believe. That she is the equal of man, his inferior or his superior—it is ridiculous to discuss. The atmosphere is composed of two elements. When it has been settled beyond cavil by the consumer which is the more useful to animal life, oxygen or nitrogen, we shall then have approached a proper period for a discussion of the relative merits of the two elements which make up the genus man. I do not mean to signify by this that the duties of woman are none the less acute. On the contrary the true power and influence of this country rests in its citizenship, the strength of citizenship is in the man, the force of man as a citizen is dependent upon his home, and his love of home is determined by the woman who rules it, whether wife, mother or sister. So that woman must account for many opportunities peculiarly her own for the betterment of this wicked old world. John Ruskin who was a superlative in his conceptions of high ideals and who through a long and beautiful life kept on giving his best and keeping nothing back, declared, "There is no suffering, no injustice, no misery in the earth, but the guilt of it lies last with the women."

I should hesitate to voice this searching indictment had not the author proved himself to be a patron saint of womankind, and crowned in words of living fire the true woman of the home when with his pen pointed "on the anvil of truth" he wrote: "And wherever a true wife comes, the home is always around her. The stars only may be over her head; the glow worm in the night-cold grass may be the only fire at her feet; but home is yet wherever she is, and for a noble woman it stretches far round her, better than ceiled with cedar, or painted with vermillion, shedding its quiet life far for those who else were homeless."

It is with diffidence that I speak of woman's influence, a theme made rich by the choicest paragraphs to be found in literature. Shakespeare has no heroes, but there is scarcely one of his plays in which there is not portrayed the heroism of a noble, guiding woman. And Edmund Spenser in his quaint old poems sings of heroines always victorious over his fairy knights. Chaucer gives us a "Legend of Fair Women." Ruskin's lecture "Of Queens Gardens," suggesting the going, moved the world to forget in its eagerness to worship

"Earth's noblest thing, a woman perfected." Our blessed Saviour while on earth healed the sick, fed the hungry, gave sight to the blind, raised to life the dead, but the edict which fell from His lips determining woman's true station in life is second only in its results here to His death upon the cross as the Saviour of the world.

What with her tender graces, her intuitive judgment, the fact that she is our mother; what with the benediction of Divinity in advocacy of her claims for recognition, I have yet assigned her a difficult task to perform as a teacher in the home—that of overcoming the fateful and fretful elements incident to disorder and discontent.

In order to meet the requirements she must have a well rounded character. She must have self poise, which contemplates mastery over self and inherent power to resist foreign influences which weaken and destroy. Fits of anger are unbecoming to a woman however beautiful she may appear to be, and manifestations of impatience call for apologies. Apologies of this character are admissions of weakness, and weakness of spirit is peculiar to little children and men who run when danger is threatening. Self poise contemplates a perfect readiness to meet at the threshold every emergency which presents itself, without effort, without undue excitement and, if necessary, without a word. Wise is the woman who has learned this secret, that silence is a weapon against which neither the world, the flesh, nor the devil can successfully contend.

George Washington's mother was an illiterate woman, but she has been dead more than a hundred years. Conditions have changed within the century just gone, and illiteracy now is worse than poverty—it is a curse. In order that woman may measure up to her full duties she must be educated, led out of the pale of ignorance and superstition, led out of herself into a plane where she may continually commune with high ideals. A standard of education for woman limited to routine will fall short of fitting her for the delicate duties of moulding characters now in demand. It would be a crime to decry practicality, but I believe the woman who can answer intelligently the question whether it is ever justifiable to tell a lie is better fitted to patch with neatness a small boy's trousers. A woman with mind polished by use to the extent that she reflects in her conversation the richest thoughts of the best in literature knows better whether to spank the boy or bathe him when he comes in mud-begrimed, but penitent. The mind which ceases to expand after the diploma is awarded, by

AN EARLY MORNING FIRE.

Clegg's Bakery and Confectionery Badly Burned.

Just before 4 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in Clegg's bakery and confectionery store, on South Elm street. In a few minutes after the first alarm was sounded the firemen were on the scene fighting the blaze, which threatened the entire block. By hard work the fire was confined to Clegg's store, though considerable damage resulted.

The blaze started in the front end of the store and was probably caused by rats getting among some matches on one of the shelves.

Mr. Clegg's loss is quite heavy, the most of his stock and nearly all his fixtures being either burned or damaged. He carried some insurance, though not enough to cover the loss.

The building is owned by a Mr. Martin, of Reidsville, and is badly damaged. The plate glass in the front is broken and one of the inside walls burned.

ALL ATE THEIR HUSBANDS.

Utter Failure of a Costly Experiment to Make Spiders Weave Silk.

As long ago as the beginning of the eighteenth century the idea of using the thread that the spider spins from its body as a substitute for the thread unwrapped from the cocoon of the silkworm was broached, but with little practical result. An Englishman, Mr. Rolt, secured 20,000 feet of silk thread from 22 spiders in two hours.

Of late some experiments have been conducted by curious persons to ascertain which spider produced the best and largest quantity of silk, for it has been demonstrated that it is an excellent substitute for that of the silkworm. Spiders from Paraguay and Argentina, from India, China and Australia, were tried, but the best results were secured from the spiders of Madagascar.

It was found that after laying her eggs the female spider spins most freely. Six of these were selected and confined for the test. From one 2,000 yards of thread were secured in ten days; from the second, 1,350 yards in seven days; from the third and fourth, 450 yards in four days; from the fifth, 1,400 yards in 11 days, and from the sixth, 4,200 yards in 27 days.

A German manufacturer was so delighted with this test that he made elaborate arrangements for having a spider silk mill, importing a large number of the spiders from Madagascar to Germany. All went well until the females had laid their eggs and begun to spin, when all at once the males were found to have disappeared. Their larger feminine companions had grown so fond of them that each female spider had eaten her mate. This catastrophe ended the costly experiment.—Washington Post.

Sweet Revenge!

She sat in a car with a little smile of satisfaction on her face, for she was well and tastefully dressed, and that means a great deal to a woman. As she moved up to make room for a newcomer a man entered, and as he sat down he said to the comfortable one:

"Why, Jane, this isn't your afternoon off! How did they come to let you out today?"

The young woman grew very red in the face, for all the occupants of the car were looking and listening, and stammered out as she half rose and then fell back in her seat:

"Now look here!"

"How well you're dressed, too!" continued her tormentor. "They must give you $20 a month. Eh? Is your mistress about your size?"

"Now, do be quiet!" cried the uncomfortable one. "If you think—"

"Diamonds, too," went on the miserable man as he caught a flash from her waving fingers. "Or are they artificial?"

The tormented one sprang up, stopped the car and made a rapid exit, followed by the cause of the trouble, whose farewell remark to the inmates of the car was:

"Well, well, but some people are too sensitive!"

They were husband and wife, and this was his weird idea of taking his revenge for a certain lecture.—Philadelphia Times.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of static or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demonic enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by Grissom & Ford ham.

A PLEASURE AND A DUTY.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. Lynch, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy is sold by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

BISMARKS IRON NERVES

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 5c at Holton's drug store.

GOOD PLUMBING

Costs less than poor and unsanitary work.

It may cost a little more at first to have us do your work as it should be done, but you will save the second installment which is so often paid to the "doctor" when work is not properly done. Let us do your plumbing and it will be done right, and the price will be as low as consistent with good work.

WE ARE ORIGINATORS:

Not Imitators!

White Delivery Wagons have been a distinguishing mark of the Greensboro Steam Laundry for a number of years. Our customers have learned to "look out for the white wagons."

Competitors have seen fit to imitate our wagons, therefore we deem it wise to make a change.

Our wagons are now in the shop. About May 1st they will come out green, our former color. In the mean time would respectfully request our friends and patrons to BEWARE of the white laundry wagons and see to it that the right driver gets the bundle. To avoid any possible confusion, in future our wagons will be lettered.

THE GATE CITY STEAM LAUN

DRY is now prepared to do all kinds of laundry in the very best style. Having recently put in a large new machine with a lot of other new machinery we can afford to do your work as cheap as can be done anywhere and guarantee entire satisfaction. We have also changed our wagons from green and red to white—they are not old wagons painted over, so please note the change and watch for the WHITE WAGONS—they will nothurt you and see that your laundry goes to THE GATE CITY, THE BIGGEST AND BEST.

SENSITIVE WOMAN.

There is a wonderful little tropical plant, the mimosa or sensitive plant as it is called. The curious thing about it is that if you pinch any part of the stem, all the delicate little branches and fragile leaves will curl up and shrink together as if they had been blighted with a sudden frost.

Woman's delicate and sensitive organism is remarkably like this little plant. If the very roots of a woman's life are injured or diseased, her whole being suffers, both physical and mental. She shrinks within herself and covers up her sufferings.

"enduring all in silence as best she may."

"My son's wife had been for years a great sufferer; all broken down and very weak and nervous," says Mrs. Betsey M. White, of Stony-creek, Warren Co., N. Y. "She was troubled with all the pains and aches one could endure. She took everything she heard of, hoping to get help, but in vain. The doctors said she could not live to have another child as she came near dying so many times. She tried Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it did wonders for her."

"This spring she had a nice boy weighing eleven pounds; she got through before we could get anyone there. I was afraid she would not live. We cried for joy when we saw how nicely she got along. I cannot say enough in praise of your 'Favorite Prescription.' I never sent a recommendation of a medicine before. I hope all women will try it. May God bless you for the good you have done."

Any woman may write to R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., in absolute confidence. Her communication will be thoroughly and earnestly considered and she will receive sound, professional, fatherly advice (in a plain sealed envelope) free of charge.

Wearing Stolen Breeches.

Henry Clayton, a 13-year-old white boy from Durham, was caught near the coal chute this afternoon wearing a pair of pants which had been stolen from Rankin, Chisholm, Stroud & Rees. In his company were Bill Gore and another boy called Turpin. Clayton and Turpin were caught and turned over to Chief Scott.

The boys went to the rear end of the store for a drink of water, when one of them, Gore, it is claimed, threw the pants through the back window. Being too small for him, he gave them to Clayton.
